

Patterns of Intelligence

CHAPTER 38

CONCLUSION OF THIS BOOK

With the discovery of DNA, the evolution debate should have taken a gigantic shift in direction. Phylogenetic trees should have gone the way of the horse and buggy.

But the phylogenetic trees and ubiquitous morphology have not gone away. What has gone away is any intelligent discussion of evolution. Many evolutionists are atheists and the theory of evolution is their best justification for rejecting God and getting converts to atheism.

In the place of "science" will continue to be descriptive story telling using massive amounts of data from "fossil digs." And of course the ubiquitous use of examples from microevolution as "evidence" for macroevolution will never go away.

But there is a powerful, structural difference between the concepts of microevolution and macroevolution!! By no stretch of the imagination are they in any way similar.

Remember the two key deceptions which drive and keep alive the absurd theory of evolution:

First, do away with the differences between microevolution and macroevolution and pretend they are the same thing or pretend that macroevolution is nothing but many generations of microevolution. These tricks totally ignore the discovery of DNA.

Second, use the numerous examples of microevolution but use only the term "evolution."

These two tactics allow the atheists to use very common examples of microevolution and claim they are examples of macroevolution. This deception gets students to think about Darwin (because they hear the term "evolution" almost on a daily basis) and when the students think about Darwin they think that atheism has been proven to be true.

In truth, the theory of evolution today has nothing to do with science. It is a scientific fraud and its "claims" come from using highly sophisticated and tricky terminology and its "evidence" comes from microevolution, natural selection and survival of the fittest.

Macroevolution is something they don't want to talk about and it is stashed away in the closet night and day because they have never observed it and they never will observe it.

The terms microevolution and macroevolution are almost extinct in textbooks and other books which support the theory of evolution. This deception gives scientists unlimited leeway to use examples of microevolution in order to claim "evidence" for the theory of evolution.

The evolution debate today is almost as if DNA had never been discovered.

Remember, nowhere in all of science has randomness ever been claimed to create massive amounts of intelligence except with the theory of evolution and its equally absurd companion: the "Big Bang."

While God could have designed and executed a "Big Explosion," the explosion was certainly not an accident. But I personally, seriously doubt there ever was a "Big Explosion." It does not seem like a very efficient way to create a Universe.

If evolution had scientific merit (i.e. if randomness could create sophisticated intelligence) then computer programmers would have become obsolete long ago.

Here is an interesting paradox, why don't evolutionists write their books using their model of evolution? They could take a math book and randomly mutate it until it was an evolution book. There would be no more pro-evolution books!!

Here is my challenge to any evolutionist. Write a pro-evolution book using nothing but randomness on a high-speed computer at the individual character level. Start with a child's story and randomly mutate it into a classic book on Darwin and evolution!!

That would keep them busy for billions of years and would end the debate.

The truth is that the theory of evolution is so mathematically absurd that if anyone claimed to have "evidence" for macroevolution you would know, with 100% certainly, it was a fraud. You just have to unravel their magic trick.

In the days of the Book of Mormon, Korihor was the spokesman for atheism and other doctrines which were a mirror-image of the truth. His followers were quickly converted back to the truth after his death.

Today, the scientific establishment has replaced Korihor as the "keeper of the gate" of doctrines which are the exact opposite of truth.

There are a couple of topics which I have put in appendices.

